Relationships! We all have them, we all need them. Why do some work and flow naturally? Why do others require so much effort? Why are some life giving and others exhausting? Why are some filled with love and others filled with so much unhappiness? Now YOU can know the answers. And, even better, you can change your relationships. It is all about MAGNETICS!

Eastern medicine has long understood the electromagnetic nature of the human system. It is based on the principle that balance and health depend on free flow of life force through one's electro-magnetic systems. Mental and emotional health, including the quality of our relationships, also depend on these same principles. The condition of your electromagnetic system determines what you attract in your relationships. Painful relationships burdened with repetitive patterns that lead to emotional unhappiness are a reflection of two people with damaged electromagnetic structures in need of repair.

I Ching Systems is a company that has spent 30 years researching and developing technologies designed to create healthy energetic systems by restoring emotional balance. Emotionally healthy people are drawn to and attract other healthy people. Once in balance, natural personality characteristics can be expressed and repetitive relationship struggles just disappear. Join us for an amazing evening of personal transformation that will change your relationships! The donation request for the evening is just $20 to all Global Information Network Members and I CHING SYSTEMS customers. For your donation, you can bring as many guests as you wish free of charge. You will have the opportunity to use I Ching Systems very latest technology. And, you will hear an all-new Relationships Seminar! Be sure to RSVP so I can include your names as my guests in the registration. SEE YOU SOON!

My warmest regards,

The Murdock Group
